In March of 2009, President Larry Shinn announced the creation of a Scenario Planning Taskforce to develop three possible scenarios for a future Berea that honor Berea's core mission but that also operates with an institutional budget that is 25 percent smaller. This initiative came, in part, because of the stock market's decline and the impact on Berea's budget, but also in response to his awareness of a changing landscape in terms of expectations and support for higher education. President Shinn will be sharing details of the SPT's final report: Of Journeys, Landscapes, and Destinations, and the timeline and processes to make decisions among the options provided in the report. This is a very defining time be Berea College, and a time when President Shinn wishes to listen carefully to alumni and friends who share an interest in positively shaping Berea's future. President Shinn will also take time to answer questions and to respond to the ideas of participants. This is a time to be heard and to have an influence! All are encouraged to attend.
