Required English Major Portfolio and English Reading List:

The Major Portfolio of course work and study is keyed to the English Major Reading List, and reflects the student's progress through the course categories (Literature, Language, and Writing—see next page), as well as with written and oral communication. The Major Portfolio should include assigned papers, tests, quizzes, and journals of reading, along with any independent-study projects or other writings pertaining to the Major Reading List work. This Portfolio should be maintained throughout the major and evaluated regularly by the student's Academic Advisor and/or other Department faculty prior to the final regular term of the senior year. A final review occurs in the last term of the senior year when the entire project should be completed.

Admission Requirements: Students must at least be in the term in which they will complete 15 course credits and have:

- 1) Satisfactory completion of ENG 110 and/or ENG 124;
- 2) an earned minimum GPA of 2.0; 3) an earned combined minimum GPA of 2.3 in ENG courses, GSTR 110, and GSTR 210; and 4) satisfactory completion of an interview for admission to the major.

^c Must be taken in senior year.

^d Foreign-language courses taught primarily in English do not meet this option. A foreign-language course would count in the minimum 20 course credits required outside the major. Two courses in the same foreign language can be used to meet the International Perspective—see 6A in General Education column.
