

Mountain Folk Festival

Berea, Kentucky

Friday April 1 and Saturday April 2, 2011

Who? Young Dancers from 4th grade through high school who come in dance groups from their school or other group, having learned the required dances, accompanied by their dance leader/teacher and chaperones.

What? The Festival starts on Friday morning and goes through Saturday night at 9:00, with an informal after-party. Dance classes and practices last all day, with breaks for meals. The whole festival registration costs $25 per dancer. T-shirts are available by pre-order for $6. There is an optional $5 spaghetti supper to raise funds for the local school-age dance group which tours internationally. Groups stay in local motels which they arrange themselves with our assistance.

Where? Most activities are held in Seabury Center or close by, on Berea College campus.

When? Friday and Saturday, April 1 and 2, 2011.

Why? To educate the next generation of dancers to the joy of dance and to carry on a 75-year tradition of folk dance for young people at Berea College.

Materials? Dance instructions, music cd and dance dvd may be ordered for $35.
